Local Legion Urges Protection of Kids By Careful Driving

Slow down! Obey Traffic Laws! This was the plea of Gerald V. Price, Chairman of the local Legion's Safety Committee to motorists of Bay St. Louis and Hancock County.

"Don't be the cause of a crippling accident or sudden death to some innocent child through your own reckless driving," Price said. "The loss of life can never be repaid. Money can not pay for suffering, pain or broken bones. Regrets and flowers are not enough. We must stop the accidents before they happen."

Price said his committee would insist on criminal action against any person responsible for a fatal accident through negligence or reckless driving.

C. D. BLAIR JR. AUTHOR OF NON-FICTION BOOK

Clay D. Blair Jr., formerly of Bay St. Louis and son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Blair Sr. of Jeff Davis Ave., Waveland, has authored a spectacular new book which bids fair to become one of the year's best sellers.

Blair attended St. Stanislaus and Bay High Schools. He joined the Navy early in World War II and after receiving his discharge from military service, where he saw active duty in the Pacific he attended Tulane University. Feeling his vocation lay in the writing field he transferred to Columbia University and during the school term held a part time job on Time magazine.

It was during this period of his life that he made his first literary attempt in the form of a short play dealing with submarines in World War II. He received credit for this in his school work and a recommendation from the dean of English at Columbia to bend every effort toward improving his writing style as he showed considerable talent.

The play he gave a performance at the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre to allow the young author the opportunity to iron out flaws, but building of sets was prohibited at that time on the scale necessary for such a production. Young Blair finished his schooling and went to work full time for Time magazine.

He married a Baltimore girl and they have made their home in Washington, D.C.

His first venture into the novel field is in his book "The Atomic Submarine and Admiral Rickover" which will be on sale shortly. This book is an exciting non-fiction story and deals with persons and weapons familiar to our times.

SERVICE STATION AND BREAD TRUCK LOOTED

During the early morning hours Saturday, Gilmore's Service Station and Ullman Ave. and Dunbar was looted and merchandise stolen.

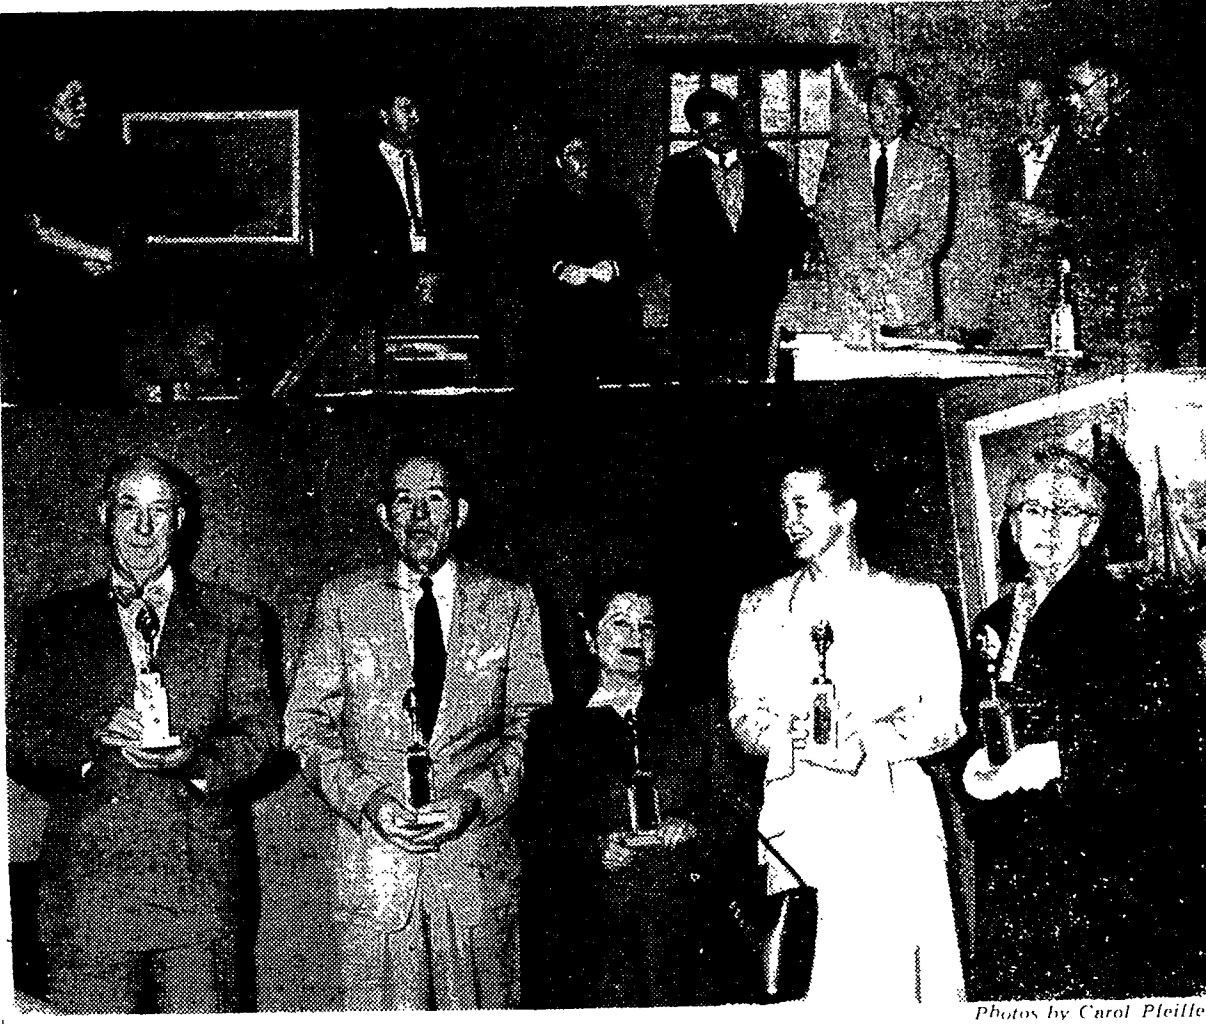

A bread truck, locally operated by Harold Saucier, had the lock broken and merchandise stolen from it apparently at the same time and by the same burglars that entered Gilmore's.

A local bread delivery truck is left standing each night at Dunbar and Ullman Ave., where Cuevas formerly operated a filling station. The local truck is loaded by a distributing truck for Bond, and in the morning is picked up by the driver of the local truck for local distribution. When Saucier arrived Saturday morning he found the lock on the back door of his truck broken and a large amount of his products missing.

Johnson Shaw, owner of Gilmore's Service Station, said that the entry to his business evidently took place during Friday night and early Saturday morning. A container holding donations to the March of Dimes fund drive was missing, and cigarettes, chewing gum and candies taken. No other merchandise was missing.

An abandoned car was found at the head of Ullman Ave. and the Beach where it had apparently been hurriedly left when it lodged in loose sand and the driver could not easily extricate it. It was learned by Sheriff John Egloff and Deputy Sam Peterson that the car had been stolen from New Orleans.

The loot from Gilmore's and from the bakery truck were piled in the automobile.

Little Theatre Launches 1954 Member Drive

The membership drive for the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre for the 1954 season is now open.

Five three act plays will be presented for the public and several one act plays for members only.

The advantages of having a membership in the theatre against paying at the door for a ticket are numerous.

The theatre has many times in the past, through the medium of the newspapers, pointed out to the public some of these advantages. First by purchasing a membership for $5.00, the purchaser immediately becomes a stockholder in the theatre corporation, with the privilege of sharing in all benefits and assets of the theatre. Secondly a membership allows the privilege of a vote in the running of the theatre business.

Third, a membership card allows the holder to see live theatre, plus any additional entertainment, the production staff of the theatre plans, for about the price of four admissions if bought at the door.

The Theatre cannot survive without an income. Like any successful business it is run on a budget. That budget is made up from the memberships sold during the theatre season.

The additional money that may come into the theatre from the sale of door tickets can always be used to advantage, but it is the memberships that allow the setting up of the budget for the production and maintenance of the theatre during the year.

Robert Schaff has just been elected business manager of the Theatre. Memberships may be obtained by contacting him or any Board Member. Schaff will name a membership committee in the near future.

FIRST OF 3 REVIEWS TO BE HELD AT LIBRARY WEDNESDAY JANUARY 27

The first in a spring series of three book reviews will be held at the Memorial Library at three o'clock on Wednesday, January 27.

As its opening review the library has planned a double treat for its friends—as speaker, Tess Crager of New Orleans literary circles, and as guest of honor, New Orleans author Robert Tallant, whose books Mrs. Crager will discuss.

It was in 1942 that Bob Tallant published his first story, and since then his writing has been prolific and amazingly diversified. Like actors who refuse to allow themselves to be "typed" in a certain sort of role, he has written in wide range of form and subject matter: short stories, magazine articles, humorous novels, books on New Orleans from voodoo and murder trials to Garden District salons, serious sociological studies, and even children's books. Among his books are listed such well-known titles as the following:

Ready to Hang
Voodoo in New Orleans
A State in Mimosa
Mardi Gras
Mrs. Candy's Saturday Night
Southern Territory
Mr. Preen's Salon
Angel in the Wardrobe
The Romantic New Orleans
Lafitte the Pirate

Mrs. Crager, owner of the Basement Bookshop in New Orleans and literary agent for many authors including Mr. Tallant, will speak briefly on the above books and review in particular the just-published "Love and Mrs. Candy." Refreshments and an opportunity to meet and chat with Mrs. Crager and Mr. Tallant will follow.

Proceeds from the review will be used toward retirement of the mortgage on the new library building.

PTA HEARS PANEL DISCUSSION TUESDAY

A panel discussion on PTA cooperation in building healthy personalities was given at the Bay High PTA meeting on Tuesday night at the High School Auditorium when the regular monthly meeting was held.

Taking part in the discussion were Dr. Jesse Sewell, Mrs. Walter Rauch, Dr. W. P. Henderson, Mrs. Allen Groat, Coach Bonnie Ray Nobles, Asst. Coach Donald Caldwell and Asst. Coach Robert Lachner.

Mrs. George Horton outlined plans for the new annex to the school and urged construction was nearing completion, and that upon the finish of the work an "open house" would be held for inspection by the public.

Three grades tied for the room count. They were the second, third and tenth grade rooms.

Mrs. Wm. Watter conducted the meeting in the absence of the PTA president, Mrs. Frank Kiefer.

A & I Board Representative To Discuss Possible Industry For Hancock County

VACCINE, GG SPUR LEADERS IN POLIO DRIVE

Mrs. Theo Tudury, Hancock County director for the 1954 March of Dimes, announced today the appointment of committee chairmen for the local campaign to raise 50 per cent more polio-fighting and polio prevention funds this January.

"Faced with the added burden of financing validity testing of a trial vaccine and the commitment to purchase a vastly increased supply of gamma globulin, which together add up to approximately $26,500,000, the March of Dimes this year must rely heavily on special gifts in addition to the dimes and dollars which, in the past, have been the main support of National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis," she said.

"No man in Hancock County enjoys the confidence of the business community more than Dan M. Russell. With his record of community service, the Special Gifts Committee, under his leadership, should double last year's contributions."

Heading the Women's Committee will be Mrs. Pat Murphy. Well known for her work in organizations, Mrs. Murphy will enlist at least 50 women volunteers for the 1954 Mothers March. "We can do it," she said, "if every woman who worked on last year's drive will sign up again and bring a friend. My phone number is 129-R and I hope the women of Hancock County will literally ring it off the wall."

Mrs. Gladys Chapman and Mrs. Douglas Bourgeois will head the Card Committee which last January accounted for $624.80 of the total campaign receipts. Twenty-five hundred cards were sent out. This January 3500 cards will be distributed in the hope that the amount contributed will be doubled.

Mrs. Tudury said added emphasis would likewise be placed on the 1954 Speakers' Bureau. Under the leadership of Kenneth Whitfield we hope to supply a speaker to every organization in the county which holds a meeting during the next 4 weeks," he said.

Mrs. Tudury pointed out that the vaccine validity trials mark the opening of the "fourth front" in the war on polio. By embarking on a nationwide polio prevention program, the March of Dimes actually has moved from a position of defense to one of attack.

"Up till now," she said, "the March of Dimes has concentrated on a triple-headed polio program: giving financial aid to every patient who needs it; supporting scientific research in the laboratory, and giving scholarships and fellowships to qualified students who want to specialize in the cure and treatment of polio patients or polio research."

"While we realize that $26,500,000 is not exactly small change, we know that the American people agree it's a small price to pay if, indeed, it results in V-Day over polio. That's why we're sure everyone in Hancock County will give more in '54."

Christ Episcopal Church Holds Annual Dinner At Yacht Club Thurs.

A large gathering filled the U-shaped tables to capacity Thursday night at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, when the annual dinner for Christ Episcopal Church was held.

The long tables were arranged the length and breadth of the dining hall. The decorating committee did a beautiful job. All varieties of camellias were used in graceful trailing effects on the tables, with ivy leaves and other greenery and yupon berries. The mantle arrangement was exceptionally attractive with pine needles, yupon, and camellias banded in quantities against the dark green of the shrubs and brilliant red berries.

A delicious full course dinner was prepared and served by women members of Guild No. 2. The food was excellent and plentiful.

Following the meal, Rev. Johnson, Pastor of the Church, called for reports from committee chairmen. The business of the Church for last year was briefly outlined, and plans for the ensuing year were given.

The reports included all activities of the parish, including the progress of the Parish School. It is planned for the coming year to add a fifth grade to the school. An additional grade has been added to the school each year since it was organized, and it is hoped it will not be long before the complete grade school is in operation.

Injured In Fall

Mrs. Claude Monti suffered a fractured pelvis when she fell at her home last week.

On the afternoon of Jan. 8 Mrs. Monti rose from a chair where she had been viewing television. Apparently poor circulation in her leg caused the fall which resulted in the fracture.

Mrs. Monti was taken to King's Daughters Hospital, where she is a patient.

Baby Learned To Walk On Crutches But Now Is Active 9-Year-Old

If you saw Terry Tullos of Laurel, Miss. playing baseball, skating, swimming, bowling, boxing or riding a bicycle, you'd hardly believe that he was stricken with polio when he was less than a year old and before he had learned to walk.

If you had attended the opening game of the Little League at Yazoo City early this past summer and had watched Terry, wearing the uniform of the Laurel Boys' team, toss out the first ball, you'd have had trouble believing that this nine-year old had learned to walk the hard way—on crutches with both legs in braces.

If you were to see him roller skating or holding his own with the other kids in the sand lot games, you'd be inclined to doubt that he was the youngest child ever to be selected for the annual poster of the March of Dimes.

But he was stricken with polio before he was a year old. He was badly crippled. He did learn to walk the hard way. Aided by the March of Dimes, he received the best medical care money and science could provide. He made steady progress toward recovery.

He was the March of Dimes Poster Boy in 1948 and he made public appearances again during the 1950 drive of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. His picture appeared all over the United States on posters, placards, billboards, in newspapers, in magazines, in the movies. He toured the country, met the President at the White House, attended many banquets as guest of honor. He was admired and loved by men because he was so cheerful and brave. He was pampered by women because he was so "cute."

You'd expect him to be spoiled because of all this attention. You might think the little polio patient who was made into a national figure would turn out a problem child. But he isn't. He is every inch a nine-year-old boy who is just a little harder because he still wears a leg brace and who makes you smile at him because he is always smiling at you.

Terry is in the fourth grade at school. He likes school but he loves sports of all kinds.

He is an only child and lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Tullos of Laurel.

"We know what the March of Dimes means to parents of a child with polio," Mrs. Tullos said. "And as Terry gets older, he has come to learn more and more what he owes to the National Foundation and those who made it possible through the March of Dimes."

Soil Analysis Urgent Need of Farmers Says Coordinating Council

The Mississippi State Agricultural Coordinating Council, at its first 1954 meeting on January 8, adopted as a major objective for all agricultural workers to inform the farmers of the need of soil analysis, realizing that many farmers need these tests to determine their fertilized needs, in order to secure maximum production. It was also brought out that some farm-

SOME DISCHARGED SERVICEMEN MAY BE REINDUCTED SOON

Colonel John W. Patton Jr., State Director of Selective Service for Mississippi, said today that the Executive Order signed by President Eisenhower on December 11, 1953 will result in the reinduction of a number of men who were released from service after having served as little as one or two days of active duty.

This Amendment to Selective Service Regulations will, Colonel Patton said, remove the possibility of evasion of minimum equitable service by a small number of persons who, under the former regulations, were required to be classified as having satisfied requirements of one day of active duty.

Under the new regulations, registrants who entered upon active duty in the armed forces after June 24, 1948, will be classified as 1-C (Discharged) or 1-C (Reserve) only if they are separated from active duty after completion of six months of more of honorable service.

This change will mean Colonel Patton said, that quite a number of persons throughout the State of Mississippi now classified as 1-C (Discharged) or 1-C (Reserve) will be subject to reclassification and possible induction.

Those who had their soils tested and feel that it is a bad practice, as soil is constantly changing.

Bossell Stevens, President of the State Coordinating Council, further commented that realizing the importance of this type of program they had invited Dr. Ivan Miles, Extension Land Utilization Specialist, who is directly responsible for carrying to the farmers of Mississippi the information regarding such soil testing and determining land use.

This program seems particularly needed at this time as the farmers are finding themselves in a cost-price squeeze that is more acute than it has been in a number of years. It is hoped that each Coordinating Council, or other farm groups within counties, will avail themselves of the service offered by the Extension Department, and other agricultural agencies to bring this program to the county.

GULF provides employment for 3750 Mississippians

GULF, a pioneer in Mississippi oil and gas development work since 1917, now provides employment for 3750 Mississippians through its drilling, production, pipe line, wholesale and retail sales activities. These Mississippi members of the GULF team earned more than eight million dollars in 1953.

Providing job opportunities is only one of the ways GULF helps in the expansion of Mississippi's economy. The company's expenditures in Mississippi, now over the $120-million mark, have run cash registers all over the state. Royalties on GULF oil and gas production, bonuses and rentals on land leased by GULF pour $3 million into the pockets of Mississippi landowners each year. GULF's tax payments to Mississippi state and local governments totalled $1,650,000 in 1953.

Private capital, faith in the future and skill... and the friendly attitude of Mississippi's citizens and their officials... have enabled GULF to expand its operations in Mississippi and to play a role of ever-increasing importance in the economic progress of this state.

MOTHERS TRAINING FOR CAGE TILT WITH DAUGHTERS

Pounds are rapidly being shed, as the "blossom girls" of the Mothers' Training are readying themselves for the cage tilt game which will be staged by the Mothers' Club of SJA. The older generation is going all out to win the game from the youngsters. Much merriment will be in store for those who view this game, and certainly much huffing and puffing by some of the players.

Certain of the "mothers" although in actual years quite young find the training very strenuous, but are determined to give their all in the contest.

The date of the game is set for Jan. 25, at 8 p.m. and no one will want to miss it. Admission is 15c for children and 50c for adults. The funds raised will be used for the surfacing project of the convent grounds.
